TEST CORRECTIONS

"If you live long enough, you'll make mistakes. But if you learn from them, you'll be a better person. It's how you handle adversity, not how it affects you."

–William Clinton

Making mistakes is a fundamental part of the learning process, but you have to be willing to really examine your mistakes to get the most out of them. This way, you stand a better chance of not repeating those same mistakes. Completing these questions is a good way to start.

1. DO A TEST REFLECTION
On a separate sheet of paper, answer ALL of the following questions in complete sentences (so I can understand what you are trying to tell me!).

1. What grade did you get on your test?
2. What grade do you think you deserve (based on how much you learned from this unit)?
3. How much studying did you do for this test? Please describe in detail what you did to prepare for this test.
4. Do you think your studying was effective? Why or why not?
5. Do you feel that the classroom activities adequately prepared you for this test? What activity helped you feel the most prepared? What activity helped the least?
6. Do you think you really UNDERSTAND this material?
7. What (if anything) will you do differently next time to prepare for a test in this class?
8. Was there anything that you studied for the test but was not asked on the test?

2. CORRECT THE QUESTIONS YOU MISSED ON THE TEST
For EVERY SINGLE QUESTION you missed or lost ANY points on and want to earn some back, do ALL of the following:

a. Write out the complete question or problem.
b. Write out the complete correct answer. (If you missed a multiple-choice question, you must write out an entire complete sentence, not just the letter of the answer.) Where did you find the correct answer? (This could be your notebook, the textbook, your brilliant teacher, etc)
c. Why did you get the wrong answer? What did you do wrong?
d. What did you not understand about the question or the subject matter?

3. STAPLE ALL THE PAGES TOGETHER, ATTACH YOUR TEST TO THE BACK, AND TURN IT IN.
